Comfort Zone®

GDX360® is Wealthcare's experience-based, goals-driven model that aligns your money with what matters to you most – your life goals. Centered on you, the investor, this process delivers the three elements of a positive financial experience that empower you to make better financial decisions:

Clarity, Confidence and Control.

Central to the Wealthcare GDX360 process is the Comfort Zone, produced by our patented financial planning technology. The software simultaneously evaluates your goals, investment strategy, assets, and all other financial resources (today and in the future), to assess how confident you can be that you'll meet or exceed your goals. This sophisticated "stress testing" process simulates 1,000 lifetimes under a variety of market conditions. The plan's "confidence" or "comfort" is the percentage of the 1,000 simulations that met or exceeded your goals.

Why do we use the Comfort Zone with our clients? And why do we recommend a plan whose score will range between 75-90% confident? A confidence level between 75% and 90% should give you confidence that your goals can be met or exceeded. This indicates your goals are manageable and you're avoiding unnecessary investment risk. A confidence level of 91% or greater indicates that you are overfunded and needlessly sacrificing your lifestyle. You could take less investment risk, achieve more goals sooner, and still maintain confidence in your financial future.

A confidence level of 74% or less means you are underfunded and that there is too high of a chance you may not meet or exceed your goals. Adjustments need to be made to plans that are over or under funded.

The GDX360 process powered by the Comfort Zone puts you at the center of a goals-driven experience that provides: Clarity, Confidence and Control
